These steps include the assignment of responsibilities, raising awareness and training of staff involved in processing operations. Please note that this Privacy Policy will be reviewed from time to time to take into account any new obligations and that any personal data we hold will be governed by our most recent policy.

This Privacy Policy, along with guidelines for processing of personal data, constitutes the overall framework for processing of personal data within Mavors.

An identifiable natural person is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly, in particular by reference to an identifier such as a name, location data, phone number, age, gender, an employee, a job applicant, clients, suppliers and other business partners. This also includes special categories of personal data (sensitive personal data) and confidential information such as copies of identification documents, bank account details, information about assets or net worth, credit history, source of funds.

1.3 Although information regarding companies is not by itself personal data, the information relating to contacts within such companies, e.g. name, title, work email, work phone number, etc. is considered personal data.

2.2.1 If the collection, registration and further processing of personal data on clients, suppliers, other business relations and employees are based on such a person’s consent to the processing of personal data for one or more specific purposes, Mavors shall be able to demonstrate that the data subject has consented to processing of such personal data.

2.2.2 Consent shall be: freely given, specific, informed and unambiguous. The data subject must actively consent to the processing of personal data by a statement or by a clear affirmative action, to him/her.

2.4.1 Mavors has to comply with various legal, tax and compliance obligations and requirements, which have basis in Union or Member State law. Such legal obligation, to which Mavors is subject, may be sufficient as a legitimate basis for processing of personal data.

2.4.2 Such legal obligations include obligations to collect, register and/or make available certain types of information relating to employees, clients, etc. Such legal requirements will then form the legal basis for us to process the personal data, however, it is important to note whether the provisions allowing or requiring Mavors to process certain personal data also set out requirements in relation to storage, disclosure and deletion.
